A writer in The London World'says of Mme. Patti's terms for singing in con-certs: "I have all my life had a weakness for ladies, and ladies have always had the weakness to know what is not their business, so I am going to betray a secret of the trade to the lady readers of this paper in order to let them get an insight into affairs discussed by everybody although 'everybody' knows nothing about what is really the matter. From all sides I hear of the greediness of Mnie Patti, the exorbitant prices she asks, and how she does not care whether the people in whose concerts she sings are ruined so long as she receives her money. The fact is this: Mme Patti receives for every concert in the Albert hall £700-an enor mous amount, no doubt. "Now let us see as to the ruin of the people who engage her. The expenses of the hall are about £100, other artists £200, advertising, etc., say £150; the whole forms £1,150 to £1,800 costs. The receipts of this first year's concert were about £1,700, of the second over £1,800. and the third will probably be still larger -that is to say, £500, £600 and £700 profit. I'know that once in a concert in which she sang the expenses were a little over £1,200 and the receipts £2,143. with £153 taken for programme books. These are figures, not opinions. I have known what is perhaps still more astonishing. One evening the fog was so thick that I was reflecting whether I should go to the hall, imagining that Mme. Patti, whom I had to accompany, would not go. I went, however, after all, by the underground railway, and the receipts that evening left over £600 profit." Co-operative Criticism.

A "mutual admiration society" of a new kind has been started in one city with good success and with benefit to the privileged members. A few girls invented it as a joke but have kept it up, finding it to be a good thing. The plan is to observe each other, with a view as to what is most becoming in dress and what combinations of color and style best set off each other's attractions or lack of them. Observations are then exchanged, and at the monthly meetings at each other's houses each member brings a sketch of a dress she has designed. Votes are ther taken as to who shall use them, and armed with this guide to an artistic and stylish costume a girl can bid defiance to high priced gown makers by either baving a good seamstress carry out the idea or, if she has a knock that way, doing it berself — Washington Star. Kaiser William's Afflictions. The ear complaint from which the Emperor William suffers has been very painful and troublecome lately in conse quence of his majesty having caught a cold when he was shooting in Silesia. The court physicians are anxious that the emperor should undergo an elaborate course of treatment, but this will involve his close confinement to the house for at least a fortnight, so that he is reluctant to consent to it. The state of the emperor's health excites a good deal of concern, but it is high treason at Berlin to allude to his illness, which, if it continues for any long time, is almost certain to become mental, as the pain is so excruciating that sleep can only be obtained by the use of strong secutives and the whole nervous system is thoroughly The Emperor William gave the garrison at Darmstadt the other evening one of those pleasant "sarprises" to which be has become addicted. In the middle of a cold night, when snow was falling, an alarm was suddenly sounded, and, after a hasty muster, all the regiments in the town were marched out to the drill ery wages, I bugg and I sets of single harnes and specified marched. ground and shooting range at Griesheim. The Grand Duke of Heese, who was sleeping peacefully in his bed, must have exe crated his autocratic nephew's exuberant love for these military fantasticalities; but, although suffering from a cold, of course he had to get up with everybody else, and accompany the troops on their country excursion, from which they returned shortly after daybreak.-London

Mr. Trollege was fortunate in secu attached servants. Once, when he paid a long visit to Venice, his devoted Toocan attendants took positive pride in fighting it out with the "foreign" tradespeople over lire and contenimi. But occasionally be stumbled on a md exc tion to the rule, and we have one strik ing example of how superstition may exist side by side with irreligion and resright and left. The one man's word was set against that of the other, and it came crucifiz was handed to the cook, and he was invised to take outh to his allegations. He twice emped to utter the falsehood he intended to swear to, but twice he was unable to utter a wor turned as white as a sheet, and fell to the floor in a fainting fit.-London
